PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

ReMAKE group LLC, Owner (WBE certified - WBE National Council)

2010 TO PRESENT (originally founded as RLF Collaborative LLC)

Rebecca is a strategist with over 30 years of experience leading organizations and projects at all scales. Her entire career has been grounded in the application of sustainable development practices to improve the condition of surrounding societal and ecological systems.

- » Carter Farm Development: serve as developer (with Green Development) of a low-impact, agrihood project proposed for a 46-acre, site in the core of Centreville, MD. This 125-unit residential project includes the preservation of a heritage farm site, a food-centered retail area, restoration of critical area habitats and a public trail. The project is in pre-development, approvals stage.
- » Hazelwood Green Development Project: served as authorized agent to the property owner, Almono LP (three Pittsburgh-based foundations), and directed development of a 178-acre, brownfield redevelopment site on Pittsburgh's waterfront. This 4-year, full-time assignment included primary responsibility for all public communications, organizational and budget development, design and construction of site infrastructure, preparation and adoption of an award winning master plan, development negotiations, and advancing sustainability goals for the site. Rebecca also served as LEED AP for the LEED ND - certified plan at the Platinum level.
- » p4 Performance Measures: served as project manager for a collaborative initiative between The Heinz Endowments and City of Pittsburgh to develop a customized set of sustainability metrics to be used by the City for the evaluation of development investment decisions. Over 130 stakeholders and technical advisors were engaged in the planning process. ReMAKE was also engaged to provide implementation support and later to evaluate the 3-year pilot program .
- » Colorado Resiliency Program: provided technical expertise for the development of a strategic plan to guide the State of Colorado's Resiliency and Recovery Office in the future delivery of resiliency programs.

Ecology & Environment*, Sustainable Communities Practice Leader

2012 TO 2016 • LANCASTER, NY (*E&E was acquired by WSP) .

Rebecca was hired as the first sustainability practice leader to initiate and expand this service area. As such, she provided senior leadership across E&E for business and new market strategy development. She also served as project director for four regional sustainability plans funded by NYSEDA and representing nearly half of the geographic area of New York State. She continued as project director for E&E's phase II contract with NYSEDA to support implementation of the Cleaner Greener Communities program funds. Rebecca also served as project manager for the development of the State of Colorado's Resiliency Framework plan, three local pilot plans, and the State's National Disaster Resiliency Competition application to HUD.

U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC), SVP Education & Research
2009 TO 2010 • WASHINGTON D.C.

Rebecca was directly responsible for the strategic direction, programming and operation of the USGBC's education department and research program with an initial 38-member staff and $10 million budget. Under Rebecca's leadership, the role of USGBC education was re-envisioned to better support emerging market needs. Implementation of the new plan required significant restructuring and downsizing in coordination with all USGBC departments and stakeholders. Rebecca also co-chaired the reorganization of USGBC's committee structure, policies and accountability. As a senior leader, she also advised the Fund Development Program and the Conference and Events team charged with producing the Greenbuild International Conference and Expo with over 20,000 attendees at the time.

KEY BOARD & FACULTY POSITIONS

U.S. Green Building Council, Board Member & Chair

2002 TO 2008 • WASHINGTON, D.C.

Rebecca was elected to the USGBC board in 2001 and again in 2003 through a national membership election in the open seat category. She was elected as the first woman chair in 2008. As Chair, Rebecca co-led the USGBC's first, comprehensive strategic planning process. As an executive committee member, she championed the transformation of board operations, its meeting structure, and communications which had previously been challenging for this 31-member Board that was comprised of professionals from across the country primarily elected to their seats by the USGBC membership or chapters. She developed and directed the CEO evaluation process and the board assessment processes which had not been regularly or comprehensively conducted in the past. Rebecca often served as a delegate at regional, national and world conferences and meetings on behalf of USGBC.

LEED for ND, Founding Core Committee Member

2004 TO 2008 | WASHINGTON, D.C.

Rebecca was appointed by the Board to represent USGBC in the collaborative development of this first of its kind Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) product following the principles of new urbanism, smart growth and green development. She played an instrumental role in partner organization relations and overall product development and technical credit writing.

Carnegie Mellon University: Heinz College School of Public Policy & Management, Adjunct Faculty

1998 TO 2008 • PITTSBURGH, PA

Rebecca served as an instructor for graduate students pursuing degrees with a primary focus in sustainable economic development, public policy & management, and urban design. Rebecca developed the original curriculum and taught a graduate level class entitled "Sustainable Community Development" - a first of its kind in the country when initiated in 1998. Rebecca also co-taught environmental policy, and served as a Faculty Advisor to a System Synthesis Project team in the preparation of a baseline emissions inventory that supported Pittsburgh's first Climate Action Plan which she led from her GBA role.

U.S. Green Building Council, LEED Faculty

2001 TO 2008, 2010 TO 2014 • WASHINGTON, D.C.

Rebecca was selected to serve as one of the first ever 20 faculty trainers for USGBC LEED workshops in the U.S. She continued with training and maintained her license to globally teach LEED Core Concepts, BD+C and ND courses until 2014 when the program's direction changed.
